

OREC Bids Farewell to Staff Members

Moving on to Greener Pastures...Literally!

Two members of our Communications team - David Mazur-Goulet and Matthew Brocklehurst - moved on to new endeavours at the end of March. We are sad to see them go, but incredibly proud of the work they both did to grow the Ottawa Renewable Energy Co-operative, and wish them every success in the future!

David worked tirelessly with OREC for over two years as Communications Manager, taking on a wide variety of responsibilities with the Co-operative. David is now focusing his efforts on a new worker-owned co-operative farm, of which he is a founding member. Click the button below to learn all about BeetBox Farm.

Matthew worked with the OREC Communications team for four months, bringing a wealth of experience in graphic design and digital communications to the organization. He is on to pursue opportunities in the environmental communications field. Connect with Matthew through his LinkedIn via the button below.

A Wonderful Parting Gift

Before departing, David and Matthew put their extensive expertise to work, helping to create a new website for the Co-operative. While we are still in the process of tweaking a few things here and there, we are very excited to be creating a website with a refreshed look and greater functionality for you, our supporters. Stay tuned!
